The Zionsville Street & Stormwater Department in conjunction with the Sullivan Muncie Cultural Center is hosting a rain barrel workshop on October 11 from 10-11am at the Cultural Center (225 W. Hawthorne St., Zionsville). Learn how to build, paint, install & maintain your own rain barrel. Recycled rain barrels that can be painted will be available for sale by contacting Leslie White in advance at 765-274-6499 or lwwhitehouse@msn.com. For more information on the workshop, contact Gavin Merriman of the Zionsville Street & Stormwater Department at 317-873-4544 or gmerriman@zionsville-in.gov.

The Zionsville Street & Stormwater Department joined again with the Sullivan Muncie Cultural Center, the Zionsville

Cultural District and the Do It Again

Recycled Art Market to promote water conservation through artistic creation. Eleven local artists have volunteered to paint rain barrels for an auction to be held in conjunction with the Do It Again Recycled Art Market on Saturday, November 8 from 10am-4pm at the Zionsville Town Hall. The Zionsville Street & Stormwater Department graciously purchased the rain barrels for the auction and all proceeds will benefit the Sullivan Muncie Cultural Center. For more information, contact Cynthia Young, the Executive Director of the Sullivan Muncie Cultural Center at 317-873-4900 or cynthiayoung@sullivanmuncie.org.

If you are interested, go to www.operationgratitude.com. Don't forget to include your letters of appreciation too!!!

branch of the service. Care package recipients will share with their comrades; therefore, it is estimated that 250,000 service men and women will be reached through this program. What a great way to show our pride and appreciation for those who are serving every day and far away from their families, especially in honor of Veteran's Day on November 11.
